

Parents in Open School Event

As part of our 'Presentation and Expectations' mini-topic to start the term off, the children invited their parents and carers into class to look at work they are proud of from the first fortnight back.

In Alfoxton class (Year 2/3), children showed off a junk model they had made. They also talked about how they have started to improve the look of the work in their books.

In Beacon class (Year 4/5/6), the children proudly displayed their writing and maths work. The class have also been doing colour mixing in Art lessons, expanding their vocabulary of colours, and conducting sketchbook work. Parents seemed very happy by what they saw and it was a great chance for children to present to a real audience.

Creative Arts

Our next topic is 'The Quantocks', and it has a creative Arts theme to it. The children are meeting Alice Maddicott from Halsway Manor to take part in this, and during this term they will be working with artists, musicians, and authors.

Our appreciation is given to our friends at EDF who have helped finance this exciting initiative. The idea is that we will create an ongoing exhibition for the community, and we intend to get parents involved in the curation and content of this.

Y6 Algebra Fun

Year 6 have started their programme of Maths lessons with Mr Tucker with the exciting topic of Algebra. They have been learning about expressions, formulae, and equations.

The pupils thought it was a new topic, but realised that they've been learning about this sort of thing since they were very little - missing number problems, pattern-seeking and following rules are all part of algebra and they've been doing this since Reception!

The Year 6s are also realising that adults use algebra all the time without recognising it - roasting a chicken, joining a gym, paying for a taxi all involves algebra.

And a big welcome to all the children and families who have moved to Stogursey School this September!

Welcome to Triscombe Class!

Our reception children with Miss May and Mrs Cavill

Mickey, Ethan, Jasper, MJ, Alfie, Harry H, Alexander, Oscar and Harry L, have all started school this September.

They have settled in really well to Triscombe class.

They all love school and they love learning.

The children have enjoyed making friends, though lots of them already know each other from pre-school.

Here's what they have been doing for the first few weeks at school.

MJ likes the puppets and likes to get them all out. They help the children in Alfoxton class with their counting.

Oscar loves maths best and can count to 100 "One, two, missed a few, ninety-nine, one hundred!"

Mickey loves PE and here he is showing off his ball skills.

Alfie isn't sure what he thinks about the teachers, he likes Mrs Cavill best and he loves playtime.

Ethan loves all animals and he wants to be a farmer.

All the children love the toy animals at school, they help them to count and sort.

Harry L said,
"I love learning -
I love the eggs and I like to count
the chickens!"
